INTRODUCTION

2. Each defendant exceeded its jurisdiction¹ under color of law by either directly, or through an agent, or in concert with another, in an attempt to unlawfully and forcefully commit an act of terror for the purpose of retaliating against claimants for daring to enforce claimants’ natural and constitutional rights. This attack occurred without jurisdiction under color of law in direct violation of 18 USC 241, Conspiracy against rights, and 18 USC 242, deprivation of rights under color of law. As documented herein, defendants worked in unison to hinder the due process of law and to commit a fraud upon the court for the purpose of said vindictive prosecution of claimants Benson under color of law infringing on claimant's rights.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

3. This action includes defendants who are employed by defendant corporation 1 and/or subdivision of corporation 1 who acted under color of law. It also includes defendants employed by corporation 4 or a subdivision of corporation 4 who acted under color of law. Damages far exceed

One in which the powers of sovereignty are vested in the people and are exercised by the people, either directly, or through representatives chosen by the people, to whom those powers are specially delegated. [In re Duncan, 139 U.S. 449, 11 S.Ct. 573, 35 L.Ed. 219; Minor v. Happersett, 88 U.S. (21 Wall.) 162, 22 L.Ed. 627." Black's Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition, p. 626.]

After 30 feet of travel, Claimant stopped his private conveyance and used a phone to video record Miguel and Miguelito Barraza in hand cuffs in front of a neighbor’s house. An unidentified police officer then yelled at Claimant to stop claimant’s private conveyance. An unidentified police officer opened the door to claimant’s private property and then told claimant to exit claimant’s private conveyance. Claimant was then placed in handcuffs and told he was being detained. Claimant was then searched without his consent. While the officer was reaching into claimant’s pockets, claimant told the officer “I do not give permission to search me.”, and the officer

⁷Due process of law is process according to the law of the land Due process of law in the latter [the Fifth Article of Amendment to the Constitution) refers to that law of the land which derives its authority from the legislative powers conferred upon Congress by the Constitution of the United States, exercised within the limits therein prescribed and interpreted according to the principles. of the common law Mr. Justice Matthews, delivering the opinion of the court in Hurtado v. ⁸Constitution extends to equal protection of the laws to people, not to interest. Taylor vs McKeithen, 499 F.2d 893, C.A. La 1974. A constitution is designated as a supreme enactment, a fundamental act of legislation by the people of the state. A constitution is legislation direct from the people acting in their sovereign capacity, while a statute is legislation from their representatives, subject to limitations prescribed by the superior authority. 15. While claimant was being detained, one of the officers spoke to a dispatcher who was audibly heard by claimant to reply stating, "He is on the do-not-detain list." Defendant Madland responded with "I don't care." in defiance to orders from his superiors.
16. Claimant then observed defendant Madland searching Claimants car. Claimant told Madland Claimant did not give permission for claimant's car to be searched.
17. Defendant Mead acting under color¹⁰ of law detained¹¹ claimant and cited him for violating codes of corporation 1 in a citation numbered under the statutory system as 1-05262980 and 1-05262981 (event #160511-3437) as though claimant was subject to Mead's jurisdiction even though claimant did not consent to said jurisdiction and the dispatcher informed the defendant on scene that claimant was on the "do not detain list".
18. Defendants held claimant in actual imprisonment with his arms bound behind his back for two hours on the side of the road.

¹⁰USC 18 §242. Deprivation of rights under color of law. Whoever, under color of any law, statute, ordinance, regulation, or custom, wilfully subjects any person in any State, Territory, Commonwealth, Possession, or District to the deprivation of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured or protected by the Constitution or laws of the United States, or to different punishments, pains, or penalties, on account of such person being an alien, or by reason of his color, or race, than are prescribed for the punishment of citizens, shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than one year, or both; and if bodily injury results from the acts committed in violation of this section or if such acts include the use, attempted use, or threatened use of a dangerous weapon, explosives, or fire, shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both; and if death results from the acts committed in violation of this section or if such acts include kidnapping or an attempt to kidnap, aggravated sexual abuse, or an attempt to commit aggravated sexual abuse, or an attempt to kill, shall be fined under this title, or imprisoned for any term of years or for life, or both, or may be sentenced to death.

¹¹At implementation of the Constitution March 4, 1789, the soul of law in America was personal liberty under the common law; to wit, "Personal liberty consists in the power of locomotion, of changing situation, of removing one's person to whatever place one's inclination may direct, without imprisonment or restraint unless by due course of law." William Blackstone and John Innes Clark Hare, cited in John Bouvier, Bouvier's Law Dictionary, Third Revision (Being the Eighth Edition), revised by Francis Rawle (West Publishing Co.: St. Paul, Minn., 1914) (hereinafter "Bouvier's"), p. 1965 (s.v. "Liberty").

19. Claimant was imprisoned in full view of the public.
20. Claimant autographed the citation under duress due to the fact that defendant Mead was armed with a weapon. All contracts signed under duress are void.
21. Defendant Mead then ordered claimant to appear in an inferior “Justice Court¹²” rather than a Court of Justice as required as though Defendant Mead has jurisdiction over a people of Nevada.
22. Defendant Mead falsely swore in an affidavit that he had probable cause to detain claimant and referred to claimant as a “person¹³” who committed “offenses contrary to law¹⁴”.
23. Defendants Mead’s citation falsely referred to claimant’s private conveyance as a “vehicle¹⁵”.
24. Defendant Mead’s citation falsely claimed that texting while driving is “unlawful¹⁶”.
25. Defendant Mead’s citation falsely accused claimant of “driving” when in fact, claimant was not engaged in “commercial purposes on the highways in the transportation of passengers, passengers and property, or property or cargo.” 18 USC 31. A driver is one who operates a “motor vehicle”.
26. The law of the case decreed in Exhibit A is incorporated as though fully stated herein.

¹³People are not persons and excluded from status that employ the term person or persons. "This word `person' and its scope and bearing in the law, involving, as it does, legal fictions and also apparently natural beings, it is difficult to understand; but it is absolutely necessary to grasp, at whatever cost, a true and proper understanding to the word in all the phases of its proper use ... A person is here not a physical or individual person, but the status or condition with which he is invested ... not an individual or physical person, but the status, condition or character borne by physical persons ... The law of persons is the law of status or condition." -- American Law and Procedure, Vol 13, page 137, 1910.

¹⁴“Due course of law,” supra, is synonymous with “due process of law” and means process according to the law of the land, i.e., the Constitution, interpreted according to the principles of the common law; to wit: “Due process of law is process according to the law of the land. . . .” Mr. Justice Matthews, delivering the opinion of the Court in Hurtado v. California, 110 U.S. 516, 533, 3 Sup. Ct. 111, 292, 28 L. Ed. 232 (1884). “Due process of law . . . refers to that law of the land which derives its authority from the legislative powers conferred upon Congress by the Constitution of the United States, exercised within the limits therein prescribed and interpreted according to the principles of the common law. . . .”

¹⁵18 U.S. Code § 31 – Definitions (a) (6) Motor vehicle.— The term “motor vehicle” means every description of carriage or other contrivance propelled or drawn by mechanical power and used for commercial purposes on the highways in the transportation of passengers, passengers and property, or property or cargo.

- 28. Madland stole private papers out of Claimants car and gave them to defendant Mead, which Mead did not return not for which was claimant provided a property receipt.
- 29. Mead took Claimants Identification card and a folder containing 4 laminated private papers of Supreme Court Cases that upheld lawful right to travel privately without a “drivers license” as the Constitution for the United States of America guarantees the unencumbered right to travel.
- 30. Claimant’s private property stolen by defendant Ewing has held for ransom until said ransom was paid¹⁷ by claimant.
- 31. None of the other private property items have been returned to claimant.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION – TRESPASS ON CASE

- 33. On November 26th, 2016 defendants Journal and Segall published an article that included comments about claimant Benson.
- 34. The article¹⁸ stated, ‘Benson is a purported “sovereign citizen,” or a follower of anti-government ideology whose adherents are known for financial scams, nonsensical writings and occasional violence.’”
- 35. The article also stated, “His saga offers a glimpse at the bizarre and often criminal world of sovereign citizens and shows how Las Vegas, despite the improved housing market, still grapples with a dark, lingering side effect of the recession: squatters and others targeting vacant homes.”

36. Claimant Benson has never claimed to be a “sovereign citizen”. As stated in the first paragraph of this action, claimant Benson is a people of Nevada.

37. The courts have repeatedly held the people are sovereign¹⁸

38. Additionally, as previously stated, claimant Benson is a sworn CUSA Marshal in the direct service of the people for the united States of America which makes claimant a de jure government servant. As such, claimant can not very well “ a follower of anti-government ideology”.

39. Defendants ReviewJournal and Segall have used defamatory language accusing claimant of being “anti-government” for enforcing law against corporate employees impersonating government employees.

40. The term “sovereign citizen” is an oxymoron as it is physically impossible to be both a sovereign and a subject. U.S. Citizen is defined in the 14th amendment. There are two separate conditions that must be met to have citizen status in the United States. The first condition is people must be “born or naturalized in the United States”. These are the free people that “established and ordained” the constitutions for each and every state of the union. The second condition is “subject to the jurisdiction thereof”. Those who are not “subject to the jurisdiction

18. In our country the people are sovereign and the Government cannot sever its relationship to the people by taking away their citizenship. Our Constitution governs us and we must never forget that our Constitution limits the Government to those powers specifically granted or those that are necessary and proper to carry out the specifically granted ones. (emphasis added) AFROYIM v. RUSK, 387 U.S. 253 (1967) But be that as it may, there is no such thing as a power of inherent sovereignty in the government of the United States. It is a government of delegated powers, supreme within its prescribed sphere, but powerless outside of it. In this country, sovereignty resides in the people, and congress can exercise no power which they have not, by their constitution, entrusted to it; all else is withheld. - 51. The act appeared to be intended to coerce and intimidate a civilian population to affect the policy of the corporations sitting as government by intimidation and coercion.
- 52. As previously stated, claimants are not U.S. citizen, but are people and non-citizen nationals owing allegiance to the United States of America.
- 53. For clarification, in this action at law the United States of America, U.S.A. or continental refers to that entity created by the Constitution for the United States of America and governed under the common law²¹ as guaranteed by the Constitution for the United States of America. United
